Missionary Update

Jim and Faye Hocking with Water for Good: “In the Central African Republic, Water for Good builds “silo-style” storage tanks made from lightweight metal sheets, making transportation to rural areas without roads much easier. We can’t independently swoop into a country, provide sustainable water, and then set water prices. We must follow the government’s guidelines and water prices. Currently the water price in the CAR is about 1/2 cent per gallon. When our maintenance team arrives on site, they will collect the small fee, which helps go toward keeping their clean water flowing.”
